

FOOD SECURITY RESEARCH PROJECT

DONATE TO THIS RESEARCH THAT'S VITAL FOR ALL AUSTRALIANS

Australia doesn't export 80 per cent of its agriculture as widely believed. It exports around 25 per cent by value at second stage production, according to research done over a decade ago by economist, Dr Mark McGovern. Yet agricultural policy is almost exclusively aimed at the export market. As farm profits continue their long-term decline and food imports continue to rise, Australia faces becoming a net importer of food in the not too distant future.

Please contribute to the vital research Dr McGovern will undertake to understand Australia's impending food security crisis, and what to do about it.

This is a joint project between the National Civic Council and Ausbuy.
